last year's hoodie,

not even washed fucking kids are cucumber wipes

BRC Weekly in

DPW Dog Park

finding a bf/gf douchebags

Wasteland

camp leads enby/aro

Eggs Bar

klowns

full remission creating bigger, better, badder art crowdsourcing out/in lists crying during DJ sets at DPW HEaT

dinosaur fights at

with Thomas Jack

Sunset Acres

consent

Fly

The Girl From The Song Dust & Illusions hiding from the BLM hiding from ICE looking at your phone being present pickle pops

Blazing Lily Gals

stealth gays (you don't know where we are, suckers!)

grift economy hipster fishing porta-potty memes iced poppers

text messages

Crack Is Whack

Whitney Party

at Mudskippers

ketamine and anal sendina

Thunderdome

fucking celebrities getting trashed bringing an ice pedicabs

all new looks

Amber Alerts

baby wipes

Black Rock Beacon

in Center Camp

BLM Canine Unit

bros being bros

Burning Man

buying ice

camp elders

cancer cis/het

Cliff Bar

clowns complaining how as changed crowdfunding

art projects crying during

Témple burn deep playa destroying

White Ocean

Ouestionmark

DPW fights at Thunderdome drinking with eating hot dogs with Skrillex

Flaming Lotus Girls

First Camp

free hugs freeze pops

furry pants

The Gayborhood

gift economy hippie fishing internet memes leaving messages on whiteboards

Madonnapocalypse

MDMA and cuddling

ice pops

Frog

Diplo at

Daft Punk at the bicvcles

There goes the Gayborhood!

or more than a decade, burners have gotten to explore "the Gayborhood" around the streets at 7:30 - an unsanctioned neighborhood in Black Rock City teeming with LGBTQ camps. What most BRC citizens don't know, however, is the quiet debate inside the Burning Man organization (Borg) about its existence... and

The Borg's Placement Team have had a noble opposition to the formation of so-called "Gayborhood," feeling that the Burning Man ethos of radical inclusion, communal effort, and civic responsibility negates the need for LGBTQ camps to band together in one neighborhood, citing that "we are all citizens of Black Rock City." But despite our best efforts

QUEER NEWS as a unified burner community, biases from the Default World have sometimes crept into our radically dusty utopia, necessitating the need for safe spaces like the Gayborhood.

Burning Man has not always been kind to the queers of the playa. 2001 was my "burgin year," when I witnessed law enforcement and Borg officials force a gay camp known as Jiffy Lube to remove an animated art installation of two cartoon men fornicating. Despite this homophobic censorship that alarmed many gay (and "adult") camps, I returned to BRC the following year, and came out of the closet as genderqueer. Instead of radical inclusiveness, I encountered misogyny, transphobia, and a general dismissiveness of my authentic self that left me questioning my burner identity. And like many queer coming out stories. I eventually just stopped coming "home" to Black Rock City.

In 2009, a new camp formed called Gender Blenders. The Placement Team loved the idea of a camp dedicated to exploring gender so much, they decided to place it on the Esplanade, next by STEVEN T. JONES aka SCRIBE ig art projects at Burning Man often struggle to justify their massive wooden temples at a remote desert festival, just to burn them down after a week, clearly isn't the best ecological option, even though it may be aesthetically or artistically pleasing.

But this year's Temple crew is publically arguing that we must log the Sierra Nevada's troubled forests in order to help save them. In parroting timber industry arguments for removing "dead and dving trees," these well-dangerous misinformation about what a forest and its crew members say they promote such discussions on the plava.

read on and inject a bit of realism into I've covered forest issues for decades as a journalist and now an familiar with the argument that log-tive wildfires. Logging companies environmental advocate, so I'm quite ging dying trees helps prevent destrucmake this argument every time there's

But while this argument may sound an opportunity to cut down trees on logical to some, it just isn't supported by scientific research. The reality is that even the most severe fires are normal and healthy for forests, because they provide essential habitat for many species of wildlife. And not only do these burned forests thrive with life after

The Temple was designed to invoke intentioned burners are spreading creates healthy forests.

intend to have conversations about forest issues all week.

So as long as they intend to their flawed forest lectures.

environmental impacts. Building art from 2001's Jiffy Lube camp to a large camp of employees from a tech giant whose name may or may not translate to the number one followed by bunch of zeros

In response to the fledgling camp's seeming unpreparedness, or overwhelmedness, the large tech camp erected a fence between them. For Gender Blenders, that first year was a harsh reality check.

In the years following the Jiffy Lube incident, many LGBTQ camps coordinated their placement requests in order to be near each other, for safety, resource sharing, and to uplift each other in a way that only fellow queers can provide. Gender Blender's sophomore year formed an alliance with Camp Beaverton (aka "the lesbian camp") and both camps quickly aligned with other Queer Burners. By the time I returned to playa in 2011, the Gayborhood was embedded in the 7:30 sector and both Gender Blenders and Beaverton were thriving amongst, and supported by, many other queer camps.

The Borg's quiet debate about this unsanctioned neighborhood could no longer be contained. Before last year's Burn, partially in response to receiving twice as many placement requests as other sectors, the Placement Team invited a delegation of queer camp leaders from Comfort and Joy, Glamcocks, BAAHS, Astropups, Sun Guardians, Beaverton, and Gender Blenders over to Burning Man

Burners spread loggers' myth that cutting down trees saves forests the fire is over, logging the dead trees doesn't actually make fires less severe.

In fact, research shows that the dead trees can lead to less severe fires than help drive the current mass extinction in the tree tops to the various salmon crisis. From the owls and woodpeckers Coast forests, intensive logging of dead trees has done incredible damage to Today, the impacts of climate change, a bark beetle infestation, and California's long recent drought have indeed added to tree mortality in the state's forests. Lee Klinger, the "independent scientist" forester behind the ments, cites a recent U.S. Forest Service estimate that more than 100 million "This is one of the tasks of the Temple of 2017, to utilize the dead trees in California's forests may be Temple 2017 crew's logging arguonce-thriving forest ecosystems.

What "salvage logging" of dead trees does do is destroy forest habitat and would otherwise occur.

The temple of dead

Temple of dead trees the need to self-segregate, and what else might be driving camps to our enclave. The Placement Team tried to proclaim that "we are all one," even citing 2015 BRC Census data that showed BRC citizens identifying as LGBTQ+ at a rate of 5 times that of queer mecca San Francisco. The modern day need for the Gavborhood was unclear to them.

The queer delegation countered with personal playa stories such as mine and the early experiences of Gender Blenders, some as recent as the previous year, noting that larger camps and villages, like Comfort and Iov, act as anchors and shelter for smaller queer camps. We cleared up the notion that we wanted all the queers to be rounded up into a "gay ghetto," pointing out that some members of the Queer Burner network, like Burner Buddies, intentionally chose other sectors. We did, however, need a sort of cultural district where we could feel supported, understood, and, most importantly, safe to be ourselves.

Placement Team's AnswerGirl left that meeting with a charge for the heads of other Borg departments: Queers don't always feel safe in Black Rock City, and we need to fix that. Changes to meet that charge have already begun reverberating throughout the Borg. However, leaders of queer camps are now left wondering what Placement will do with the Gayborhood moving forward. Personally, I believe one of the main reasons nearly 30% of BRC now identifies as "LGBTO" is because the existence of the Gayborhood provides burners the freedom to explore the spectrum of gender and sexuality that is not possible for them in the Default World. Therefore, the Queer Burner Leadership Network will continue the charge of gifting this city its "Queer Cultural District."

Cyndi NoPants is one of the camp leaders of Gender Blenders at 7:45 & Eulogy.

pines that have succumb (sic) to pine Klinger wrote on the project website video, later adding, "Hopefully, the and repeated on a project promotional message of this temple will inspire others to take more responsibility in caring for our life-sustaining forests. For But logging millions of dead trees me, this temple will be for the trees!" in California would destroy life in our forests, not sustain it. Forests are dynamic places, not mere tree farms.

The dead trees that Lee wants to see logged provide important habitat for millions of woodland creatures, and when they burn again or decompose, that creates healthy, natural, diverse

Some logging on public lands is and vital infrastructure. But if there's a problem with the health of our forests.

it's the fact that we've logged too many old-growth and other large trees – and that's not a problem we'll solve by logging dead or dving trees. Instead, that only furthers the forest habitat crisis.

Man and this Temple won't have a huge impact on California's forests.

to justify the building of a massive

At the end of the day, Burning

But perpetuating timber industry myths bonfire could hurt the cause of smart, science-based forest management long Steven T. Jones, aka Scribe, is the author Experimental City in the Desert is Shaping of The Tribes of Burning Man: How an the New American Counterculture and a media specialist with the Center for Biological Diversity.

after Temple 2017 has turned to ash.

necessary to provide defensible space (a few hundred feet) around homes bark beetle to build the Temple,

How to get laid at Burning Man et's be real. If you're coming to the playa and you're single, it would be nice to get laid. You're in one of the most beautiful, most bizarre, most butt-naked places on the planet. Getting booty here would be a beautiful thing – and I'm the one to help you get it. This is my guide on how to get laid at Burning Man, from a guy who has never gotten laid at Burning Man.

"But wait, Dusty" you ask. "Why should I listen to you? Aren't you uniquely disqualified from being able to speak with any authority on this matter?" To which I say, who needs qualifications? I don't need to have gotten laid to get you laid. That's like requiring a year of experience for an entry level job. I can do this job. I can get you laid. Í mean, you're reading this, which means you're obviously cultured and intelligent, so you've got that going for you. Now let's harness that personality to get you some action. Here are a few nuggets of wisdom that may (or may not) help you get laid.

First things first:

Practice good consent Don't be "that asshole." Whatever you're doing, always ask before escalating. Even then, it's no secret that some people get mad stoned out here, so let's all be good humans toward our fellow travelers and refrain from taking advantage of those experiencing altered states.

Keep your parts clean

Non-negotiable. If you wanna get dirty, you've gotta stay clean. No one wants to rumble in your stinky ass jungle. Wipe your ass. Brush your teeth. Brush vour ass. Whatever it takes. Oh and no oral sex after Wednesday. I'm not sure where I first heard that little chestnut, but it sounds like a good idea.

How about the Orgy Dome?

Nope, you can't just show up and get laid. The good folks over at ATTOL (And Then There's Only Love) run a tight ship, and if you want to step into the Orgy Dome's air-conditioned bone zone, you better be qualified. What does it take to get in? I don't know,

You probably won't get in because I've never gotten in. What I do know is there's almost always a long line, because the playa's home to lots of horndogs. Eventually, you'll get interviewed to see if you're a good match for the orgy ecosystem, and if you fit the criteria, you get in! There are a few things to keep in mind about the Orgy Dome. For one, they won't let you inside just so you can jerk off. I mean, you can do that anywhere. The Orgy Dome is for orgies. Furthermore, you're gonna get a wide variety of people and body types, so this may be a big negative if you're a shallow fuckwad like I am. Finally, you can't go alone. Orgies are more fun with a friend anyway, and so you should do the proper prepwork and bring your own booty. And when you do, bring enough to share with the whole class.

This works especially well if you're already hot, or you've got the swagger there's something about playa dust on naked skin that just seems to amplify advantage. Put on your birthday suit and roll around the dust like vou're naughty bits. Just like all the dirt in your tent, that shit is gonna be tough

Of course, getting naked doesn't automatically get you laid (depending sets the tone for your conversation. If you're actively flirting while naked, it's those Costco samples: you're giving the with purchase. Someone's bound to buy your savory summer sausage or delicious pink taco after all that sam-

Be honest

The Burn is a pretty wild environment where everyone is just a tad sluttier, a claim I am backing with absolutely no evidence. It might be the case that getting laid is simply a matter of asking someone, "Wanna fuck?" And you either get to it or move on. A common reason that people come out here is to do things they wouldn't and/or couldn't otherwise do in the Default World, and one of those things may just be to say "yes" to an attractive stranger's amorous request. Seriously, it's not unheard of.

No flirting at the Temple bad taste. Those people are there to drop their baggage off for a one way what with all the sobbing.

Not to sound all hippy-dippy, but in a literal wasteland, hoping to find yourself, or find the answer, or just get really fucking wasted. Either way. you're on a collision course with an important lesson. So step up and be that sexy adventurer who deserves to and confidence is hot.

If you want to tell Dusty Poet how full Beans Beans the Musical Camp at 9:45 of a hot person, or both. Keep in mind your innate fuckability. Use this to your Scrooge McDuck in Fort Knox. Just be mindful not to get it inside any of your on how hot you are) but it certainly the sexual equivalent of putting out veterans of Burning Man. Horrified about Burning Man's growing popularity, they will incessantly tell you that 1996 was the year "everything ended." They regularly gripe in the Burning Man Facebook community groups that the quality of people continues to get worse, and the culture has been ruined by the arrival of "the kids," "the rich," and Skrillex. These disgruntled men and women drag in their own generators and pink flamingos from their homes in Reno, Nevada, and spend their days on the playa stationed near their 1976 Volvo wagon, sipping on lukewarm beer and puffing on spliffs. They hate house and techno, sneer at groups of costumed partiers running to the Maceo Plex set, and fervently believe that songs without guitars don't qualify as "real" music. "Show me somebody who can play an instrument, on a stage, live that's what I call talent," they growl whenever they hear someone playing anything by The Chainsmokers.

5. The Stardust Vagabonds

These non-GMO, organic raw vegan souls make it to Burning Man because the universe guided them there. Constellations served as their Google Maps, and the moons of Saturn sent their brains pulsating cosmic signals to head in the direction of Nevada. They call Burning Man the only place they belong, forgetting that just last week, during the solar eclipse, they claimed that Big Summit Prairie in the middle of Oregon was their

"real home." These nonconform ist dust-dwellers are what would happen if a Carl Sagan quote came to life, destroyed all their neurotransmitters by doing too much ayahuasca, and mutated The Stardust Vagabonds don't believe in soap, foot-hygiene, but they do believe that the dandruff from their unwashed scalps vields healing properties more effective than modern medicine. They will try to convince you that your third eye caught conjunctivitis after you touched the railings at Diplo's last set, and that you should say "almond milk" three times in the mirror for a cure.

Starlight Vagabonds singlehandedly keep rave toy companies in business, and can be seen flashing their light-up respirator masks and LED batons while hula-hooping to a Bassnectar or Infected Mushroom set played out of their hemp seed speakers. They spend their days at the festival practicing sun salutations, masturbating with coconut oil, and warning about the health hazards of drinking from plastic water bottles — but will cheerfully snort ketamine off shitstained portapotties when the feeling strikes them. They bring their children

Man. Oh, and they call orgasming on the playa "dusting a nut." porta party what happens when 6. The Flummoxed Europeans

The Stardust

Vagabonds

leave their cigarettes and trash lying around, which will result in an attack from The Stardust Vagabonds, who bum-rush the Europeans in order to take revenge, brandishing their lightup toys, beaded dreadlocks violently happy with Burning Man's current DJ lineup, which includes parties and they'd be chain smoking Marlboro Sasquatch and the Automatic Subconscious. If it were up to them Lights as Jamie XX or James Blake floats down from the sky with another cigarette or a nutella croissant. BRC at @austin_gebbia and on Instagram at

I mean, you could. But it's just in trip to eternal entropy, so don't be surprised if someone vou're interested in doesn't respond well to your advances, by virtue of being here, something in your life must have gone well. You're a profane wanderer, flirting with chaos be here, because that takes confidence,

Be awesome

Of course, it can also turn you into an egotistical twat. That's not what I'm going for here. But surely you've met people who move through the world with a panache and personal magnetism that make you say, "This person is on the path to greatness. I wanna fuck them." Be that person. Be that fuckable. Now go get sexed. BRC of shit he is, or (less likely) tell him how this advice helped you, stop by & Eulogy.

6 types who ruin BM 4. The Jaded and Afraid The Jaded and Afraid are the continued from cover

They hail primarily from New York, Miami, and Los Angeles, but swear that "Berghain is home." Although he has been studying the German Rosetta Stone for approximately one day, at any given moment, Leo, from Miami, can be heard asking, "Wo ist die techno?" To which Jerry, from the Bronx, replies, "You gotta stop with the fucking German techno. bro! I told vou I only know how to say 'Romanian DI' and 'warehouse."

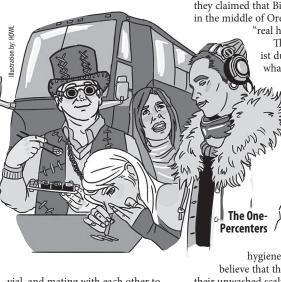

They don't bring bicycles because they think the desert has Uber Black readily available to take them from camp to camp. They can be seen miserably moning around their camping grounds, trying to locate Chris Liebing's bald head in a sea of colorful galactic unicorns. They attend the Lee Burridge sunrise set at Robot Heart, only to fall asleep on the ground, saying, "It put me to sleep, dude. Where's Function or Anthony Parasole when you need

3. The One-Percenters When they're not preoccupied with hogging 99 percent of the world's wealth, the one-percenters flee to Black Rock City to seek solitude from their butlers and assistants. Their festival entry methods include flying in a TAO Group investor's chartered private jet and hogging the Nevada freeways in RVs equipped with reverse-osmosis Fiji water showers and Egyptian cotton mattresses. Their favorite DJs include former Miami Heat star turned DJ Rony Seikaly, Behrouz, and Guy Gerber. Their attire entails baseball caps stitched with "Mykonos fucks lbiza" slogans, hooded Louis Vuitton scarves embroidered with llama fur, and body suits with matching moon boots spraypainted by Mr. Brainwash and Alec Monopoly.

During the day, you can find these one-percenters carrying around the ashes of Albert Hofmann in a Cartier vial, and mating with each other to conceive a dust-fund baby. At night, they'll either be gleefully swinging off the Robot Heart bus (which is like a Greyhound bus that experimented with acid in art school) — or riding their bikes, yelling, "This is what it feels like to have nothing!"

> You know when a superstar DJ is sometimes forced to fly commercial, but knows in the back of their minds that it's temporary? That's how the one-percenters feel about hanging out with the plebes at Burning Man.

to orgy domes on the playa to expand their minds, and will whip anyone with an incense stick for disobeying any of the Ten Principles of Burning somehow score a Burning Man ticket through a friend of an Ibiza dealer's girlfriend's buddy who runs a nightclub deep in Italy. On their magical journey to the Playa, they take seventeen buses, a boat, a taxi, and Noah's Arc, but once they get there, they have no idea what to do and end up more confused than Ten Walls' agent after he somehow manages to book his client a gig. Completely unprepared, they show up with a bag the size of a pre-schooler's lunch box and forget to pack a toothbrush and toilet paper. A bright-eyed family from a commune in Seattle may end up "adopting" them, letting them mooch off their food, drinks, and shelter. But the Euros will inevitably flopping in the wind.

These adventurous Europeans

The Flummoxed Europeans aren't stages with names like Intergalactic

You can follow Austin Gebbia on Twitter with you, but keeps lingering around your camp, and somehow won't stop hanging around you or your campmates chapgasm when you finally find chap stick and savor the sweet bliss that befalls your lips upon application

CK aka Calvin Klein slang term for doing cocaine and ketamine at the same time clusterfluffed what happens when acute Reno failure when your Ramparts has to send you to Reno health diagnosis is so bad that medical AirBnBurn another term for turnkey or plug-and-play camps, where one's camp is set up for them in advance by Black Rock bottom no, it's not most of the residents of the Gayborhood; it's what you hit when your life has final

LINGO

Black Rock bottom feeder one who takes advantage, usually sexually, of strung-out burners at their worst blowing your fun load when one has partied so hard the day or night before, that they end up missing a big bowling for darkwads a game played on the playa where one runs into and knocks down a group of people who are not illuminated at night, to teach them a lesson that they need to wear brightwad the opposite of a dark-wad; someone who lights themselves up with so many blinkies at night, that they burnacle a person who isn't camping are blinding; see also enlightlement lights, i.e., don't be a darkwad event because they're sleeping it off ly unraveled completely on the playa entrepreneurial burners

Build Week has exhausted you, yet you get unexpectedly rejuvenated and recharged by a gaggle of beautiful "fluffers" with water misters and snacks

Eek! slang term for doing Ecstacy and ketamine at same time enlightlement when someone is so lit up at night that they are blinding to the eye; see also brightwad FAFFFing when someone can't seem to leave camp because they keep "Fucking Around For Fucking Forever" fippie fucking hippie frontburnered when your camp gets moved by the Placement Team to Gate screw what you do when the line to enter Black Rock City is so long, that you end up finding a creative way to pass the time that connects you deeply with, well... whoever happens to be stuck in the vehicle with you glitter stallion a sexy, often gay, male burner who sports the traditional "sparkle pony" look - buffed body, hot pants, glitter, furry boots, etc. - yet actually helps build camp homo fomo fear of missing out on a fabulous gay party (or even just gay sex) in the Gayborhood jackpotty finding a porta-potty that has toilet paper, doesn't smell, and is not full of shit; it's like winning the porta-potty jackpot! line tasting no, it's not sampling various flavors of powerded drugs; it's when you're not sure if the line to wait for something is worth it, so you interview the people exiting in order to make a more informed decision molly and chill the new playa date moop suit a playa costume that sheds or falls apart easily, creating moop no-friends Monday the day you try to break down camp and end up getting into fights with all your campmates playa fill-in your temporary playa bovfriend or girlfriend when your significant other back home can't attend Burning Man that year poop envy when a constipated burner is envious of another burner's successful bowel movements an art car with a DJ, sound system, and lights pulls up to a bank of porta-potties procrastisocializing when you go and visit other people's camps instead of staying and building your own schwaggot derogatory term for a person who gifts you unwanted schwag security blanket packer someone who overpacks, in order to feel safe about camping in the middle of nowhere snarkhole a snarky burner's mouth specialoccasionitis having expectations set too high due to something being a "special occasion" specticipating a spectator who insists that they are "participating" simply because they managed to show up surprise burner a burner who scores a last-minute ticket and shows up unexpectedly at your camp The Zombie Shuffle the type of dance people do at a typical sunrise party at Robot Heart out in deep playa tripper trap a glittery or blinking piece of artwork on the playa, of dubious artistic merit, whose main purpose seems to only be to lure burners tripping on drugs to gather around and stare at it weekend runaways burners who escape the playa before Burn night

Contributions by: Adrian Roberts, Free Fall, Jupiter Gatling, Lobsterdust, Moran, St. Nick, Sarge, Tapout, DJ Tyme, Ya-Ya

midget tossing fidget spinning asking and trying misgendering coke - shut up, you know you like it moop poop packing early not unpacking party during Exodus Great Depressurization in Reno pee funnels Trump's golden shower camp playa names playa careers plug-and-play camps self-contained pooping in a dark having sex in a porty-potty dark porta-potty BRC Weekly jokes porta-potty quotes from 5 years ago from 5 years ago rave in the desert corporate retreat rebar lag bolts Robot Heart Mayan Warrior rode hard and rode lusty and put away wet put away dusty safety third safety, word! Segways Onewheels ninja disruptors sherpas shirtcocking rompers showing up a few showing up a month early to days early to set build a city´ sleeping in an RV sleeping in the smoking pot superfoods Susan Sarandon Flon Musk on 8 hours sleep taking a year off graduating from Burning Man taking your kids to BM your kids taking talking about BM trash fence party D-Lot depression tropical house unicorns veteran burner seasoned burner watching movies until after Game the Black Rock Bijou of Thrones "We're vegan. "We're poly." White Ocean Rat Trap

Shiftpods yurts Contributions by: Absinthia, Adamm The Badger, Buck AE Down, Camron Assadi, Chay Philips, Chicken John, Coop, Danger Dann, Deborah Windham, Dave Decibel, E-Meal R. Mando, Evil Pippi, Gigi D L'amou Irina, Jason 1969, Jason Silvero, Luna Crow, Michael Connor, Mortisha, Mos, Penfold, Rusty Blazenhoff, Sachi Ivv, Sarah Montova Sarge, Simon of the Playa, SF Slim, DJ Tyme, Weevil McJerkinson, Ya-Ya, Zoe Ptalek

"On Wednesdays

we wear pink!'

White Wednesday

by MORTISHA

ot a megaphone? Know how to use it? Actually, no, you probably Most everyone enjoys good, free, entertainment and I know the opportunity to see if you're the next Chris Rock is very tempting. However, there's a good reason people with megaphones are dubbed "Instant Asshole" on the playa. Most of you jerks are doing it wrong! After 10+ years of practicing The Art and Theory of Bullhorning at Burning Man, here's what I have learned:

Rule #1: Don't yell Do I really have to explain this? You are using a voice amplification device. It amplifies your voice. So you don't have to. Yelling into it distorts your voice, makes you unintelligible, assaults the delicate ears of your unfor tunate audience, and instantly identifies you as an amateur. So don't.

Rule #2: Silence is golden Don't be afraid to shut the fuck up have vomit vocal bullshit into it every second. If it isn't gold, don't say it. Rule #3: Be fucking funny See Rule #2. Also, know whether you are funny or not before you pick up the megaphone. If you aren't sure whether you're funny or not, you're probably not. Are you a hit at parties?

for a minute if you don't have anything interesting to say. Just because you're holding a bullhorn doesn't mean you Megaphone 101 The art of the bullhorn Do people double over laughing on the regular when hanging out with you? If not, you are probably not funny, and making your face noise louder won't fix that. At the very least, be witty and/

Rule #4: Avoid BWI'ing aka Bullhorning While Intoxicated It's tempting, I know (oh trust me, I know). It's really really tempting to grab that bullhorn after downing a half bottle of tequila, but chances are, you're waaaaaaaaa less funny than you think you are at that moment. Just like you can't drive, dance, or fuck as well as you think you can while under the influence, you probably can't make funny either.

Rule #5: "Snark" does not equal "mean" There is a very fine line between being clever/snarky/sarcastic/teasing and just being a dick. If that concept is not very clear to you, just put the megaphone down.

Years ago, my crew and I got carried away with the mean. I came home feeling like an asshole, and didn't pick up a megaphone for a few years. I thought and talked about the whole weird, wild world of playa bullhorning for a long time and the conclusion I came to is this: At its best, bullhorning entertains, illuminates, snaps your target into the moment, let's them know they have been SEEN, and encourages them to PARTICIPATE with you. You become the embodiment of Radical Inclusion, Self-Expression, Participation, and Immediacy. That's FOUR of the Ten Principles right there!

Done wrong, you can really do some damage to a person/camp/neighborhood by spewing mommy issues out your pie-hole, poorly disguised as "wit". Making someone cry is not entertaining – it's mean, and it lets everyone within earshot know you have some deep, dark issues and need to grow the fuck up. Do you really want to announce that over a megaphone? No, you don't.

If you want to hear Mortisha and her campmates in action, they're at P3 Oasis (celebrating ten years on the playa!) at 7:15 & Genuflect, or catch them cruising around on the Thugboat art car.